The Suttons and Their Name

Sutton is one of those names that was acquired through the location of the family in its early history. It is from the Anglo-Saxon words, sudh meaning "south", and tun, meaning "town". Therefore, the name designated "the family of Southtown".

The families of Sutton and Dudley, whose histories are inextrecably mingled by inter-marriage and relationship, are ancient ones in England, dating before the eleventh century.

In 1251, in the reign of Henry III, Rowland de Sutton married a daughter of the noted family of Lexington. John de Sutton was Lord of Malpas and Shocklech in 1329. There is record of many lands being given to John, son of Richard de Sutton, by Edward III. Isabella de Sutton, after the death of her husband, Sir John de Sutton, in 1359, married Sir Richard de Dudley. Upon her death the estates of the combined families were inherited by her grandson, John Sutton. Among these estates was the famous Dudley Castle.

Other branches of the family were held in high esteem by the people of Holderness in the Province of York, and in Scotland, Ireland, and Wales. The family played a large part in the history of the British Isles.

The Center of the Sutton in New England was New Jersey in that section then known as East Jersey, although the descendants of the family have now scattered throughout the United States.

The first of the Suttons of whom record can be found was William Sutton who came to Massachusetts in 1666, but it is believed by many authorities that he was of the second generation of the family to come to the colonies. He was a Quaker and the holder of large tracts of land. His children were Alice, Thomas, Mary, John, Judah, Richard, Joseph (who died in early youth), Benjamin, Daniel, and Joseph. Many of these children of William Sutton settled in New Jersey. It is generally supposed that William had one or more brothers with him when he emigrated to "The New World", but the family was of such an adventurous disposition that its members seldom stayed in any one location long enough to be on record. Traces of t and in the histories of every frontier in America.

Among the many members of the family to serve in the Revolutionary War were Jonathan and Uriah, brothers, who held Commissions as Captians. There were more than twenty-five Suttons from New Jersey alone, and many more from the state of Massachusetts.

A few of those who have distinguished the name of Sutton through the years are: Charles Manners Sutton, Bishop of Norwich in 1792 and Archbishop of Canterbury in 1805; his son, Sir Charles Manners Sutton, member of Parliament for the University of Cambridge and Speaker of the House of Commons for many years; and Sir Richard Sutton, Under-Secretary of State and land of the Treasury, Created Baronet in 1772.

The most favored Christian name of the early Suttons in America were Joseph, John, Daniel, and Thomas.

There are two coats of arms which belong to the families from which the American Suttons are descended. The first, that of the Sutton Dudleys, is "or, two Lion's passant, bordure engrailed azure. Crest: out of a ciscount's Coronet or, pearled argent, a lion's head azure, collard gold." "The second, that of the Suttons of Nottingham is Quarterly, 1st and 4th Argent, a Canton sa., for Sutton; 2nd and 3rd argent, a cross fleury azure for Lexington. Crest: a wolf's head, erased gu, Motto: Tout Jours Prest, (Ready everyday)."

The Suttons were a courageous and adventurous family. They have held high positions both in England and in America. Their outstanding characteristics were strength of character, bravery, wisdom, faith in God, and tenacity of purpose. The heritage of the name of Sutton is in itself an honor and a title.

In 1776, our State of North Carolina chose its first officers and James Glasgow was elected secretary. It was part of the secretarys duty to make out grants of State land. Some say Bucklesberry was a grant of State land.

John Sutton was said to be the first one to settle in the area called Bucklesberry in Lenoir County. He came from Irland about the year 1770. He owned all the land from Falling Creek to Bear Creek and from the Neuse River to where the railroad is now. The land was very swampy and woods everywhere. John had several hundred slaves and a foreman to look after them. He had a horse that he rode over the place. There were ditches dug to drain the land to take all the water to the Neuse River, and the trees cleared away. It has been very good farming land, lots of black and clay dirt and rich soil. John was the first to build a house which he and his wife Elizabeth raised their children. In the front yard of this house was a small house where the foreman lived. John Sutton, his wife Elizabeth and several of his children were buried in the cemetery in front of the house. We don't have any record of their birth or death. There was a lightwood marker put to their graves, but have rotted away. There is a cemetery in the back of the house where slaves were buried and it is still there where the cedar trees are now.

Jerry Sutton, Sr., son of John Sutton got the home place. He married Tabitha Hayes. They had a son, Alonza H. Sutton, and he married Martha Jane Parks. Alonza H. died and Martha Jane Parks Sutton married John Frank Barwick and their son Dempsey Barwick married Swannie Sutton, daughter of John Ivey Sutton, and Core Lee Fields. John Ivey was the son of Jerry Sutton, Jr. Mrs. Swannie Lee Sutton Barwick now owns the house that John Sutton built over 200 years ago and it is still a pretty home.

About the same time it was said that Benjamin Sutton came here from Scotland. He married Pency Young. They had a son Hardy Sutton, and he married Annie Hill.

This album is made up of the descendants of John Sutton and Benjamin Sutton.
